

OCEAN STEAMER JUST ESCAPED FATE OF TITANIC

British Freighter Chiltern Ridge in Collision With an Iceberg.

Montreal, May 11.—The fate of the Titanic was narrowly escaped by the steamer Chiltern Ridge in a collision with an iceberg to the east of the New Foundland banks on her voyage from Hull to this port, where she arrived today.

The steamer, a British freighter, had her bow plates badly dented by a glancing blow she struck the berg and only the fact that she luckily slid off the ice mass and escaped contact with any sharp section of the underlying portion of it saved her from disaster, in Captain Reg's opinion.

The berg was struck in latitude 46.39 north and longitude 44.40 west, in the track of the ocean liners, but some distance to the north and east of the spot where the Titanic met her fate. After the collision the steamer was surrounded by icebergs which, although they could not be seen, evidenced their presence by the echoes which resounded from their towering sides at every blast from the steamer's whistle. Those on board regarded her escape from destruction as nothing short of miraculous.

MARCH AND CAMP WEEK OF JUNE 9

Orders Issued for the State Troops to Rendezvous at Blue Job Mountain, Farmington

Military men and the public in general throughout the state will be interested to learn that general orders have been issued from the adjutant general's office for the annual six days' practice marches, camps of instruction and maneuvers, in the week of June 9.

The point of rendezvous will be Blue Job Mountain in Farmington, close to the home town of Governor Feltner, and the several organizations will make the larger part of the journey from their home stations by marches.

The first battalion and band which includes all the infantry companies in Manchester will travel by rail over the Suncook Valley line to Center Barnstead and thence, the march will be taken up to the concentration point.

Troop A, Cavalry of Peterborough, will go by rail to Concord and thence by marching. Battery A first field artillery stationed in Manchester will make the entire distance overland.

The second battalion will go via Nashua to Barrington and thence to Farmington by road; companies C, E, and M, by rail to Center Barnstead and then take up the march. Headquarters, third battalion and company L, first infantry and the machine gun company will rail via Manchester to Center Barnstead and then on to Farmington by marches and the detachment of the hospital corps as attached by the chief surgeons to the respective commands.

As in former years the senior field officer, Col. Paul P. Babidge will command all the troops in the field and will submit for the approval of the commander in chief, Governor Feltner an outline plan of the week's maneuvers. It is the intention of superior headquarters to have skirmish firing with ball cartridges by all organizations armed with the rifle several times in the course of the six days and this practical use of the arms will also be required of such organizations armed with the revolver and the battery will have practice with shrapnel. Col. Babidge will also designate camp sites and supply depots.

The supplies on hand in the arsenals will be shipped to places, and other necessary supplies will be purchased. The transportation will be hired by the quartermaster's corps as may be directed by the quartermaster general.

In the course of the respective practice marches, encampments and maneuvers, and inspections will be made by the officers of the inspector general's department and the detailed reports of such will be sent to the adjutant general's office.

The pay rolls of the several organizations must show the name of every officer and enlisted man in the command, and if for any reason he is not able to be present for duty the reason must appear after his name as "absent without leave" "absent, sick," and it is ordered that only those who were enlisted and whose names are on file in the office of the adjutant general prior to June 1 will receive pay.

The following officers of the general staff are detailed as mustering officers, in addition to such other duties as may be assigned to them, and will daily muster the organizations as follows:

RAILROAD MEN CALLED TO FIGHT BIG FOREST FIRE

Help Summoned from Here on Saturday and Sunday to Fight Flames.

A fire which destroyed nearly 150 acres of woodland broke out Saturday afternoon at Randall's Crossing just west of North Berwick on the western route of the Boston & Maine. Every available track hand was sent from this city, Dover, Rochester and other nearby places to fight the blaze.

Breaks Out Again Sunday
The railroad men succeeded in checking the flames late in the evening and were ordered home. A watchman left to look after the scene of the fire discovered the fire breaking out again on Sunday and again a call was sent to the same places for help. One hundred and fifty men were soon on the spot and after much hard work checked it for the second time. Besides the standing timber the owners of the property suffered a big loss on the wood that had been cut and piled up.

CLAIM FOR 35 CENTS.

United States Pays This to the State of New Hampshire.

The commonwealth of New Hampshire today lodged a claim of $5cents against the federal government of the United States and the worst of it is the United States has to pay, notwithstanding that economy must be the watchword of the administration in the face of the tariff revision.

Zealous state authorities in an unguarded brown tail moth nests in the back yard of the postoffice building at Dover, N. H., and discovered three rows of moth nests in a lonely tree which sheds its shade upon the hard working postal employees of Dover during their rest periods.

Present Bill at Regular Rates

The state bugologists, without much ado destroyed the nests of the pernicious eggs, and monobambly presented a bill for 35 cents, evidently at the established rate of 15 cents for the first nest and ten cents for each of the others.

The postmaster protested vigorously with the declaration that he himself could have annihilated the months without expense. If the state had pointed them out. An issue was threatened and the quarrel was referred to the treasury department.

Sherman Allen, Asst. Sec. of the Treasury who learned diplomacy as an assistant secretary to President Taft, conceded the point. After a formal bill and voucher are rendered a treasury warrant will be sent to the state.

WAS IT A JOKE?

Chandler and Blair Tip Off
Hollis and Stevens.

Democratic members of Congress from New Hampshire were jokingly warned by former Republican Senators that they will not be in public life after the Underwood tariff bill is passed, at the annual banquet of the New Hampshire Association of Washington at the National Hotel.

Former Senators Blair and Chandler, with Senator Hollis and Representative Stevens, were speakers at the banquet.

Elmer E. Fisher, President of the association, introduced Charles Turner as toastmaster. About ninety natives of New Hampshire were present.

DEMAND REFUSED.

Boston & Maine Turns Down
the Trackmen Once More.

The demand of 250 Boston & Maine trackmen who have been on strike at the North Station terminal for several weeks for a $2 a day flat wage rate was refused by the company on Saturday. There was a conference between a committee of the strikers and Chief Engineer A. B. Corbett of the Boston & Maine, which lasted several hours and was held in Mr. Corbett's office at the North Station.

It was stated that the fact was established that the railroad company had made an agreement with the trackmen's organization three years ago, a point which had been disputed by the railroad officials.

Achton Horne of Somersworth was a visitor here on Sunday.

G. O. P. PLAN FOR REORGANIZATION

Important Meeting of Republicans
Held in Chicago on Sunday

Chicago, May 11.—Proposals to reorganize the Republican party were discussed at a conference here today between six Republican U. S. Senators and thirty-two other Republican leaders, representing nine states. The immediate subject before the conference was to what action shall be sought at the meeting of the Republican National Committee at Washington on May 24, looking toward reorganization of the party along progressive lines, and as to whether there shall be a Republican National Convention this year.

The conference lasted for more than four hours, and was held in a hotel overlooking the lake, in a room where the seven governors last year, drafted the letter, urging Colonel Roosevelt to be a candidate for the Presidency. Although the public were not admitted, Senator Albert D. Cummins stated, it was merely an informal talk, a sort of round table discussion of what may be done for the best interests of the party by reorganizing it along progressive lines.

Presided over by Senator L. Y. Sherman of Illinois, the discussion was participated in by Senators Cummins, William B. Borah, of Idaho; C. I. Crawford of South Dakota; A. J. Gronna of North Dakota; W. S. Kenyon of Iowa; Congressman E. A. Haynes of California; Congressman J. W. Good of Iowa; and members of the state legislature.

Somebody asked Senator Kenyon whether there was to be an effort made to get a new national committee.

"That subject did not come up, but most of us would have no objection if the present committee resigned," replied Senator Kenyon. What did come up was a proposition to give the next committee to have the next committee take off.

FIRE STEAMER FOUND TO BE IN BAD SHAPE

Manchester Workmen Engaged to Make Repairs to Steamer 1.

It has been extremely fortunate that Portsmouth has not been visited by a fire of any size during the past week as the fire apparatus has been found to be in a badly crippled condition.

Early last week steamer No. 3 was sent to Manchester to receive much needed repairs, and steamer No. 1 was sent to the Central station to take her place. Shortly after her arrival Engineer Jones decided to try the steamer out and soon found that she could not be depended upon and Chief Engineer Woods was notified. Workmen were summoned here from the repair shop at Manchester and it was found on examination that the steamer's valves had been allowed to go to waste. It is expected that the repairs will be completed so that the steamer can be given a try-out this Monday evening. A trial of Steamers Nos. 2 and 4 will also be made to determine their fitness for service in case of a big fire.

NEW UNIFORMS

For the Fire Fighters on Engine 1.

The fire company connected with Engine 1 will shortly appear in new glad rags. The uniforms will be furnished by F. W. Lydston & Co., and the Sagamore boys will be right out straight the next time they are seen on parade. The new regulation cap will be part of the rig.

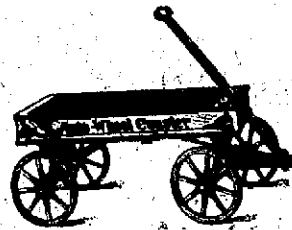

Any time you want to take a drive just telephone 3, and Hines will do the rest.

HIGH SCHOOL DEFEAT SOMERSWORTH HIGH

Show Much Better Form--Portsmouth Independents Defeated at New Castle Sunday Afternoon.

The high school baseball team surprised and delighted the scholars of the school and others on Saturday by putting it over on the Somersworth high school team to the tune of 13 to 2, and if it had not been for two errors it could have been a shut out. Badger pitched the entire distance and only allowed six hits. He has plenty of speed and kept the hits well scattered and if it had not been for Bennett's error and Jones' miff of a fly the visitors would not have scored.

Wright caught a good game and Bruce played a great game at second, accepting all chances and Harrington and Newton played fast ball. The score:

Travers, Marvelous Golfer, Winner of Many Championships, Going After the Remaining Titles and to Double on Some

THREE VIEWS OF JEROME D. TRAVERS
PHOTOS © 1913 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

New York, May 12. Jerome D. Travers, winner of the United States and metropolitan titles last year, is out for more laurels. The Upper Montclair, N. J., club star has won about everything worth while in the golf line title, but believes it would be well to grab what's left and double on some others. Travers is in fine form at present. Evidence of this will be furnished to anyone who will take the trouble to visit the Upper Montclair links and see him take the star members of his club into camp without stirring a hair. If Travers succeeds in retaining the Metropolitan golf championship to be played at Fox Hills May 21-24 he will put the Metropolitan Association to the exercise of providing a new trophy for the championship. At present, the winner of the title gains for his club the custody of the Chauncey trophy, which was presented some years ago by Daniel Chauncey, the President of the Metropolitan golf association. The conditions under which it was given provided that it shall remain in the custody of the club from which the player who wins the title enters for the year following his victory and that it shall be won by the same player or representing the same club three times if then shall become the permanent property of that club. Two years ago, in 1911, Jerome Travers, representing the Upper Montclair, N. J., club for the first time won the Metropolitan championship over the Gard on City course, with Oswald Kirby once more being his opponent in the final round. As a result, the Upper Montclair Golf Club, which two years ago had never been heard of in the list of prominent clubs, has now held the Chauncey trophy for two years, and if Travers wins the event this season the club will acquire permanent possession of the trophy, which is one of the most handsome of the many prizes open to competition to golfers of this country. Pictures show favorite strokes of Travers. One on left shows top of swing with brassie; one in center, finish of mashie midsize shot; one on right, chance for mashie midsize shot.

on soon after his election so that it might pass upon credentials of the delegates to the 1914 convention. The conference brought together the largest assembly of Republican leaders in Chicago since last year's convention. When the meeting adjourned for the day, Senator Sherman gave out what he said was a synopsis of the discussion. "We considered," he said, "whether the national committee should be as inflexible in character as it has been. This opinion was that the committee would be amenable to public opinion and keep pace with what is going on. There was no definite action on the question of calling a national convention this year. A call, of course, would have to come from the national committee. The question they arose as to whether the committee would issue a call and we felt that the committee would yield to the sentiment of Republicans generally on that point, as last year's election was a pretty positive indication that radical changes would be made. "We agreed that southern representation in the convention should be cut down, according to the strength of the party in each southern state. We did not take up the detail as to how this should be done, but left that to be worked out later. "Presidential primaries were not considered, but I think we are all agreed as being in favor of them. Our whole conference was free and easy interchange of views as to ways and means of reorganization of the party as a means of our progressive Republicanism see it. Senator Cummins who has been here since yesterday, arranging for the meeting, was asked why the formal meeting was put off until tomorrow in view of former Governor Hadley's arrival. "Well," he said, "our meeting tomorrow won't be anything more than a continuation of today's meeting, only on account of it being Sunday, we did not want to transact what might be considered business."

BOSTON THEATRE.

Rural Drama Charms—Holds Audience as in Days Gone By—Roses Are in Capable Hands—Edward L. Snader Especially Pleasing as Uncle
Josh—Incidental Music a Strong Feature.

Once more Denman Thompson's
"The Old Homestead" is relishing Bostonians with its clean wholesomeness, its beloved melodies and its homely pathos and humor, and the Boston theatre is playing to capacity houses nightly with admirers of this ever-popular play.

The production is in its twenty-seventh season, but somehow the same charm lingers and the pictures of New England rural life take the same hold on emotions as in the years gone by.
"The honey" atmosphere of the New Hampshire farm and the double quarter of farm hands, with their songs and melodies of old times, bring a sudden instinct to the eyes and a pull on the heartstrings, and audiences have fallen under the spell just as audiences did a quarter of a century ago.

The part of Uncle Josh is in the capable hands of Edward L. Snader, and the lovable old soul, with his quaint humor and kindly shrewdness, is well portrayed. For the rest of the cast the roles are mostly taken by old friends in the parts, and long acting in them has brought a naturalness that adds much to the vim and "realness."

The supporting company is excellent in every particular. Mrs. Maggie Bryer as Aunt Matilda could not be improved upon. She invests the part of the gentle spinster with just the right medium of quiet humor. Miss Minnie Stannell as Hickey Ann and Earl Redding as Ed Chumley are as happy-go-lucky a pair of mischievous youngsters as one would wish to see.
Walter F. Kelley and Charles Clark as Cy Prime and Seth Perkins, the "boys" who have quarreled for thirty years and finally bury the hatchet in the woodpile, are both admirable, and Fred Clarke's Happy Jack is an excellent bit of acting. All the minor parts were well taken care of.

CARPENTERS GO OUT ON STRIKE

Practically All the Men Quit at Noon Saturday--Both Sides Firm and Both Confident of a Victory.

The Union Carpenters went out on a strike at noon Saturday noon, as the Master Builders refused to grant their demand for 41 cents an hour and a forty-four week or Saturday afternoon off.

Practically all of the contractors were affected. All of the men of E. N. McNabb & Co. and S. S. Trueman went out. Edwin Patterson lost all but five. Albert R. Jenkins lost all but one. W. A. Hodgdon all of his men. Willis F. Kierman only lost one man. The Master Builders through their secretary issued the following statement:

"A large, determined and representative membership of the Carpenters & Joiners Union, from this city, Rye, Greenland, Newington, Elliot, Kittery and Newcastle responded to the strike roll call held at Socialist Hall, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The conference committee reported that three contractors, in compliance with the request of the Union, made January 25th last, had paid their men 41 cents an hour for the past week beginning May 5th and conceded the Saturday half holiday, thereby placing themselves in position to continue their jobs on Monday morning without loss of time to themselves or men, any delay in their work, or inconvenience to their patrons."

The three contractors who have granted the demands are the Constructing Co., holding the naval hospital at the navy yard, Oliver Locke and John Nowell of this city.

The Master Builders have been anticipating the strike and it is understood that on all work started they have a strike clause in their contract. Both sides seem determined to fight it out to a finish, and both appear confident of final victory.

MCCARTHY'S FEAT OF 22 STRIKE OUTS THE RECORD FOR ALL NEW ENGLAND.

Pitching for the St. Anselm college second team on Wednesday against Wilton high, Francis McCarthy of Portland, Me., fanned out twenty-two batters. This is known to break all school and college records for New Hampshire, but the question is raised, is it the record for all New England? This is an interesting question. It is believed that the record for Massachusetts is held by Spaulding or Clay, both of whom pitched for Dorchester high and later for advanced schools. But what is the record made by Spaulding or Clay? Did either of them achieve twenty-three strikeouts? Who is able to bring forward definite information in the matter of strikeout records?

The game in which McCarthy caused the twenty-two to whiff is the first game he has pitched this year. He will probably be given a tryout with the varsity at once on the strength of the performance. McCarthy was captain and pitcher on the Portland high school team of last year. It is said that Manager Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox offered him a tryout.

CONFESSED TO ATTEMPT TRAIN WRECKING

Reading, May 11.—On a charge of attempting to wreck Boston & Maine railroad trains by placing obstacles on the tracks, Fred I. Turner, aged 23 of Reading, was arrested Saturday.

According to the police Turner has confessed to several attempts at train wrecking in Wakefield and Reading during the past eight years, stating that his object was "to see the excitement."

Put Logs on Track.

In most of the cases logs were placed on the rails or fishplates in switches, but the obstructions were discovered before the arrival of a train. In one or two instances, trains passed over the fishplates, but were not derailed.

The last attempt to wreck a train was made two weeks ago, when logs were found on the rails a few hundred yards below the Reading station.

The discovery resulted from a telephone call to the Reading station, from an unknown party, who told where the obstructions were. Turner is alleged to have told the authorities that it was he who telephoned, as he became conscience-stricken soon after he had placed the logs on the rails.

A flimsy letter was received by Agent Fred S. Chesley of the Reading railroad station, a few days ago, in which the sender said that he was the person who had made attempts to wreck trains on the railroad near here. The writing of a number of suspected persons was examined and the arrest of Turner followed. He will be taken before the District Court at Woburn, Monday.

Enduring Fast Day.

Now that we have all miraculously pulled through another Fast day, we may well consider whether the pain and exhaustion incident to the proper observance of the day is worth enduring yet another year. We say nothing of the strain of long-continued prayer, in which the cheerless and hungry hours of Fast Day are passed. In all seriousness, there was never a more ridiculous holiday on the calendar than this same Fast Day, as it now exists. Beautiful enough in its original conception, it has come to be anything but what its name implies.

It seems as if the best way to secure the dropping of a great person or event from the mind of man is to establish a holiday in memory of it. When one day in the year is set apart for remembering a thing, the other days of the year are equally set apart, it appears, for forgetting that thing. Moreover, the holiday itself is almost certain to become distorted from its intended purpose. Witness the amount of thought given to American independence on July Fourth; the slim services at the churches and fat services on our tables Thanksgiving Day; the little hatchets with which we tenderly allude to the immortal Washington on his birthday; and the almost commercial spirit which enters into much of our Christmas festivity.

The one holiday in the year which has entirely lost its meaning is Fast Day. The desirability of a "day off" at this time of year is unquestioned. In England there are holidays that do not pretend to commemorate anything. Just "bank holidays" they call them, and most of them fall on Monday, the best day of the week for laying off. A bank holiday now and then would be a pretty good thing in this country, where working people need far more time than they get for recreation and for keeping their houses and gardens in proper trim.

If it is desirable to appoint a day for fasting, let us appoint Fast Day on Good Friday, an occasion which is sure to be observed with deep religious sentiment by a large number of people.—National Eagle.

If Japan Fought Us.

Some of the people who are worrying about the drubbing the little brown men are going to give Uncle Sam might feel different would they make a study of the hard times now prevailing in Japan. After the war with Russia, the Japanese government set out to create economic independence, partly through a protective tariff and ship subsidies, but more particularly by direct government aid to manufacturing. Companies with capital aggregating hundreds of millions were organized. The government guaranteed the interest payment on many of these. For the time being this created a fictitious appearance of prosperity. Within the past year, however, it is seen that a nation, like an individual, can't live itself by its own bootstraps. The growth of manufacturing towns has led to the depletion of the agricultural districts. There are great sections where there are abandoned farms like those on the worn-out hills of New England. The result has been a distressing advance in the cost of rice, and half rations among the poor.

The condition of the Japanese farmer has become pathetic. In bad years his rice fields bring him in $24 per acre, which it cost $36 to produce. Even in exceptionally good years, he does not clear more than $1.50 per acre. Eighty-five per cent. of the farms are mortgaged.

The income of the Japanese people averages about $23 per capita. Their taxes take $4.40 out of this $23. They are not in very good shape to invest in the costly playthings of war! It will take the Japs a generation to carry off the burdens of the Russian war, and to adjust themselves to the costly scale of living of modern civilization.

Von Moltke once said that he knew 1000 ways to get a German army into England, but not one to get it out. How much more true this would be in the case of a Japanese attack on this country.

War for Revenue Only.

The recent exposures in Germany of the extent to which great manufacturers of armaments and war material have worked to stir up war scares in order to get trade and promote army and navy increase have shocked Europe and the world; and whatever the errors in the details of the impeachment may prove to be, the conservative newspapers of Germany unite with the radical journals in recognizing the shameful character of the simple and undeniable facts. Nothing shown in the matter is worse than the share of the military party in the government itself in booming the armaments business. But all this should occasion no wild surprise. It will be remembered how in Russia, when after the war with Japan the building of a monstrous new navy was proposed, Admiral Rozhdestvensky said that, although there was no excuse for the extravagant plans, the building was sure to take place because so many powerful interests would profit by it. The promotion of war scares in France in the interest of the aeroplane busi-

Deposed King Manuel of Portugal, His Bride to Be and Her Father

The forthcoming marriage of Manuel, deposed king of Portugal, to Princess Augustina Victoria of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen will be of great advantage to the former ruler of the Portuguese. It will strengthen his position in royalty through extending family alliances and is also expected to avert the financial trouble that seems to have been threatening him for some time. Manuel recently declared he expected to be restored to the throne of Portugal. The royalists, however, have not made much headway toward overthrowing the republic. In this illustration are shown, from left to right, King Manuel, Princess Augustina Victoria and her father, Prince Wilhelm of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen.

ness is a matter of knowledge; and the mournful exposures are not all foreign. At home and abroad, the mixture and dominance of commercial motives in the awful game appear ever more appalling; and the burdened peoples pay the bills, not only in portentous taxes, but in incessant and paralyzing unrest and fear. Is not this a time when, without exaggeration, but also without weak and unworthy palliation, our press and all makers of public opinion should bring home to the people is never before the waste and wickedness of the mad rivalry in ornaments in which the great nations are engaged today?

EDITORIAL OPINION.

Promises Not Idle Made.

The extreme care with which Mr. Morgan tried to remember everyone with the slightest claim upon him, and to provide for the host of unnamed private pensioners dependent upon him, is notable; and admiration is aroused by his instructions that all promises which he may have verbally made, and obligations assumed by him tacitly or by implication, which could not be proved legally in the courts, should be honored by his executor in case they should become marred as in the genuineness of the claims. The man's true personal integrity shimmers every line of the instrument.—Springfield Republican.

That Must Be It.

reaches even into the Philippines. The extension of the provisions of the income tax clause of the tariff act to the Philippines moves Commissioner Quenson to protest that this is taxation without representation, since he and his colleagues Mr. Earnshaw have no votes. The point ordinarily would be considered well taken, but at present the necessity of having agriculturalists everywhere is imperative. Commissioner Quenson is told that the rich in the Philippines must be taxed by the United States in order to aid "the poor farmers" who are held to have suffered by the abolition of the export duties on their products. How farmers are injured by being given freedom of export for their products, we may or may not learn in due time. Statesmen should not be hurried. They are entitled to all the time required to devise a plausible excuse for legislation that is contradictory. Meanwhile the earnest purpose of all parties to "do something for the farmer" will suffer no diminution. Wherever there is a farmer, there is at least one man who has cheered in his life by the knowledge that 96 senators and 336 representatives only wait to know what he wants done to do it.—Boston Transcript.

Prepare for Fly Time.

Mild weather in winter and spring has its disadvantages. It allows fly time to begin early. The only recourse of the housekeepers is to begin at least as early as the fly. Keep the garbage can covered, and keep it clean. Make liberal use of carbolic acid. Three tablespoonfuls of a 5 per cent. solution of carbolic in a quart of water will kill eggs of the fly, and the same mixture sprinkled over garbage discourages the buzzing pests in their quest for dinner. The health department of Chicago puts the case tersely: "No fly, no flies." Do your part in abolishing filth and see that your neighbor does his; and there will be a decided drop in intestinal diseases of children during the coming hot season.—Chicago Journal.

CONCORD LETTER

Concord, May 12—The house of representatives once more has fixed a date for final adjournment, this time choosing May 18, Friday of the present week, at 5 p. m. The senate has assigned the resolution to this effect for consideration as a special order tomorrow and at this writing, there is a possibility, though not a strong probability, that the length of the 1913 session will be 20 weeks. But unless there is a larger attendance or better progress, than was the case last week the sessions will stay with us until June 5, which would just equal the record for length of the famous of infamous session of 1887.

At the end of the 16th week of this session, there had been 881 measures introduced, with enough more promised to at least reach the 900 mark. Of these 306 had passed both branches, 393 had been killed in the house, senate or executive chamber and 189, or 21 per cent, were still active and demanding some sort of action upon them.

The interest of last week, and the same will be true of this week, centered about the progress made by the administration programme. On this line Governor Parker made another innovation during the week by sending Lieut. Governor Sawyer as Hon. W. I. Sawyer of the executive council is frequently called, into a session of the senate to explain some amendments which he desired to the so called court bill. The amendments, however, were not adopted.

Both of the Governor's vetoes of bills for cross state trunk line construction were sustained by the house on Wednesday. On the million dollar bill 181 votes for the veto and 140 for the bill. On the Southern New Hampshire shire bill the majority was the other way, 106 to 121, but as a two thirds vote is required to pass the bill over the governor's veto, that measure is just as dead as the other. The governor now has introduced a bill providing for the completion of the north and south trunk lines at an expense of $300,000. Whether the friends of the cross state will attempt to amend it or not remains to be seen.

The most important of the governor's bills which have thus far passed both branches of the legislature abolishes the boards of trustees of the state hospital, state sanatorium, state school for feeble minded and state industrial school and establishes in their place a board of control to be composed of the governor, the secretary of the state board of charities and correction, a purchasing agent at $3,000 a year and two other members at $8 a day.

The senate killed the administration measure abolishing the forestry and agricultural departments, but later passed a new bill creating a new agricultural department and leaving the forestry department as it now is. Another new bill of the week from the governor combines the tax and license commission in one body. The bank commissioner, police court, police commission, fish and game commission and session law publication measures are in order for action in the house along with others mentioned.

Another very important new matter the consideration of which practically will begin with the 20th week of the session proposes the exemption from taxation of growing timber. A conference of those interested in this matter was held last week with the purpose of securing a re-assembly of the constitutional convention, but General Eastman of Exeter stated his belief that such exemption should be granted legally by act of the legislature, and by vote of the conference he drafted a bill to this end.

When he sought unanimous permission to introduce the bill on Thursday Mr. O'Neil of Walpole objected. The bill was got in, however, through the judiciary committee, and while Mr. O'Neil demanded a roll call it was read twice and tabled for printing. As Mr. O'Neil announces his determination to fight the matter to a finish this is likely to furnish some of the liveliest minutes of this week.

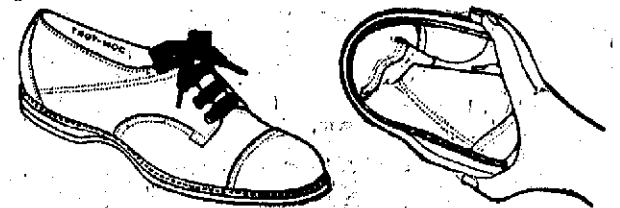

The senate has passed appropriation bills from the house for a statue of Franklin Pierce, and for roads in Kinsman, North, Jefferson, Ellington and Oostep, and other bills raising the state tax, and increasing the salaries of the justices of the supreme and superior courts, and the members of the public service commission. It killed the weekly payment of wages bill, and scheduled the hours of labor bill, for a special order this week.

The house passed appropriations of $12,970 for the state sanatorium at Glencliff; $15,000 for the Pembroke Sanatorium, this after one of the hottest fights of the week; and other sums for the state hospital, state college, and Daniel Webster birthplace.

The house killed after a lively debate, the bill providing for compulsory school supervision; a reforestation measure; and an appropriation for state aid for the Hampton breakwater.

The Republicans fought the Democrats and Progressives through four more roll calls on the Portsmouth registration measure, but were beaten finally, of course, and the bill passed.

The conference committee on the gray squirrel bill reached an agreement which both branches ratified, continuing the present protection of the animals for six years, but giving consent to the killing of the animals when they are doing damage to crops.

Important measures, the consideration of which was begun last week, but put over without final action until this week, include workmen's compensation, weights and measures; an appropriation of $40,000 for hospital accommodations at the state prison; establishing new rules of evidence in the courts; extending the powers of the state department of public instruction; and creating a board of improvements and conservation.

It was one of the largest gatherings of Pythians ever held in Dover and the exercises were witnessed by a big crowd.

Previous to the ceremony of laying the corner stone there was a parade of which Robert K. Reynolds was chief marshal and George M. Stevens chief of staff. The line formed on Franklin Square with right resting on Broadway. The roster of the parade was:

Chief Marshal Robert K. Reynolds and aids, Emory's Military Band, John A. Emory, director; Crescent Company Uniform Band, Knights of Pythias; Norway Plains Company, U. R. K. P. of Rochester; Lucullus Company of Portsmouth; Somersworth Company of Somersworth.

Rochester; Quamphagan Lodge of South Berwick, Me.; Berwick Lodge of Berwick, Me.

The line of march was down Central avenue to the Pythian building. At the site of the building a platform had been erected and on this were the grand officers and prominent guests. The ceremony of laying the stone was the usual ritual of the Supreme Lodge, and it was carried out by the officers of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire Pythians. The oration was delivered by Rev. Clayton U. Vogt, pastor of the Police Memorial church.

The following Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire Pythians were present: Grand Chancellor George W. Hazell of Littleton; Grand Vice Chancellor Heriram G. GREAT STRIDES MADE ON CANCER CURE

Boston, May 11.—That he has apparently cured rabbits of cancer was the statement made by Dr. Howard W. Nowell of the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital yesterday. Further news Dr. Nowell stated that his experiments on 10 human beings were proving most encouraging and that enormous strides are being taken toward finding a cure for this dread disease, the second worst in the United States, being only exceeded in deadliness by consumption.

Dr. Nowell in no sense claims to have found a cure for cancer. He places special emphasis upon this fact in order that no unfortunate may be misled.

Has High Hopes.

But although he disclaims any intention of having discovered a cure, he does admit his researches along this line are proving successful, and even if he does not find a cure, others taking up the work will, and he hopes even he himself will be the one to make what will be the greatest medical discovery since the discovery of vaccination for smallpox.

It was only recently that Dr. Nowell, who is assistant professor of pathology at the Boston University Medical school, announced he had succeeded in finding a chemical process for extracting the poison from a human malignant tumor and with this poison, obtaining from rabbits a serum which when mixed with the original poisonous substance in proper proportions at the tumor extract.

Dr. Nowell had previously announced he had succeeded in immunizing rabbits.

He now announces he has apparently cured rabbits.

It only remains to continue the work until, applying and modifying his discoveries, they will immunize and cure human beings.

That this will be accomplished the doctor has no doubt. If not by him, by someone else. If not in this country, in some other country. That he is on the right track is certain. There is nothing left to do but to continue the work along the lines already undertaken, and sooner or later the goal will be reached. When this occurs cancer (carcinoma) will take its place with smallpox and yellow fever, now almost negligible factors in the health of a civilized community.

Dr. Nowell conservatively uses the words "apparent cures" relating to his achievements. The doctor professes the word "apparent" lest some of his rabbits have a recurrence of the cancerous growth of which he has relieved them. As for not one single rabbit has had this happen. Still, the doctor says it is possible for this to happen.

For years Dr. Nowell has been engaged in his attempts to find a cure for cancer. For the last three weeks he has had 50 patients upon whom he has been experimenting with his rabbit serum.

Admits Prospects.

In response to demands from medical men and the laymen all over the world Dr. Nowell has at last admitted his partial success, the bright prospects for the future, and consented to give the results of his last

the economical cooking fat

Cottolene is well adapted for pastry-making because it produces light, delicate, flaky crust, and is much more wholesome than either butter or lard.

Cottolene is a vegetable product—contains no animal fat. It has more nutritive value, and food made with it digests more readily than if made from animal fat.

Cottolene is better and cheaper than lard, it costs about the price of lard. Two-thirds of a pound of Cottolene will do the work of a full pound of butter or lard.

Cottolene is never sold in bulk—always in air-tight tin pails which protect it from dirt, dust and odors. It is always uniform and dependable.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY

HALF A MILLION DOLLAR FIRE AT BERLIN

Berlin, N. H., May 11.—Fire destroyed the lumber plant of the Berlin Mills Company Saturday at a loss estimated by company officials at between $500,000 and $600,000. It was reported that two men were missing. The extensive pulp and paper mill property of the company was not damaged.

A thousand men were thrown out of employment by the destruction of the plant. The company said it would take three or four months to rebuild.

Sparks from an electric motor in the big sawmill caught in some inflammable material, and the flames spread so quickly that many of the men had to jump out of the windows to escape. The Barker mill, formerly a house and several outbuildings, with a comparatively small amount of manufactured lumber, were lost. The adjoining offices and stables were saved. Help was called from Lewiston and Portland.

The sawmill was of the most modern type, with a record for sawing 125,000 board feet of lumber an hour.

The nearest paper mill of the company was a mile away, and was not seriously threatened. The fire was said to be the largest in the north country part of New Hampshire in many years. The loss is covered by insurance.

three weeks' treatment on human beings to the world.

All of the patients who are undergoing treatment at the Homeopathic Hospital have shown signs of improvement. In every case within from 48 to 96 hours after inoculation with the rabbit serum the patients, most of whom have been suffering the severest pain, have been relieved. In every case the use of opiates to deaden the pain after this period has been dispensed with. In every case the patient has shown marked improvement. In no case has the patient suffered any ill effects whatever. Each case being treated has been severe, recurrent and inoperable. Each patient had been surgically and internally examined, and there is no doubt that each person is suffering from cancer.

Too Early to Judge.

Dr. Nowell, as yet, states it is too early to judge these cases and that at least a year must elapse before they can be intelligently reviewed. He says he cannot too strongly emphasize the importance of this work nor his hopes for the future, but at present he has not found a cure. There is no serum for sale and no patients will be taken except through the hospital under whose auspices the experiments are being carried on. No person is advised to try his treatment where surgery is possible.

He is treating the human patients just as he treated his rabbits, at five day intervals, making each injection personally. There is no charge, excepting the merely nominal charge of the hospital. The serum is free and no one connected with the work receives any money whatever.

NEW COURSE AT STATE COLLEGE

Complete Department of Domestic Science Assured.

A complete 4-year course in Domestic Science will be offered by New Hampshire College at the beginning of the next college year. Announcement has just been made by the college authorities that arrangements for the course have progressed to the point where it is fully assured. It is believed that this addition to the curriculum of the State College will be the most important advance in educational matters in the state of New Hampshire in recent years.

The course will be an equal of those now offered at noteworthy educational institutions in other parts of the country. It will provide not only broad cultural training, but technical studies in the subjects immediately related to domestic sciences and the other branches of home economics.

Through the installation of this course the young women of New Hampshire and of the other states in the upper part of New England will have opportunity for the first time of securing modern, advanced training in the economics of the home. Up to this time such a course as will now be given in New Hampshire Colleges has not been available at any point nearer than Massachusetts. Hundreds of young women have been compelled to forego the advantage of one of the most deservedly popular movements in college education of the present day, unless recourse was had to the opportunities offered by another state.

The remarkable development in the teaching of home economics and the splendid opportunities that this has opened up for young women are matters of general knowledge. Not only does such a course provide the fundamental home training that will be of greatest value to a young woman who will later conduct a home of her own, but because of the academic studies included in the course, it gives a young woman the equivalent of a broad college education with appropriate technical features added. In addition to this for such young women as desire to take up teaching or professional work adequate training in domestic science opens the door to immediate and most remunerative positions. There is a tremendous and increasing demand for graduates adequately trained in domestic science and domestic art. Not only are they needed for teaching the same subject in other schools, but for work as professional dietitians and as institution housekeepers of the highest grade.

There is no other line of scientific or professional work in which immediate salary of such attractive size is available for graduates. It is not uncommon for positions paying $1000.00 to $1800.00 to be opened to young women who have just completed their work in college and with a brief experience many such women command salaries as high as $2500.00 or $3,000.00. Purely from the side of opportunity for independent income, modern training in home economics is one of the most remarkably efficient aids ever developed in technical education.

The new course at New Hampshire State College will be there and complete. Announcement has not yet been made of the head of the new department, but it is stated by the college authorities that the woman to be selected will be one of marked attainment in this field and a teacher capable of developing the course to highest efficiency. The attitude of the college is to secure the best, in the belief that the course is of such importance to the young women of the state that they are entitled to the highest obtainable efficiency in the head of the new department.

It is expected that the department will be located, for the current year, in Thompson Hall, which is the administration building of the college group of buildings. There is a large room in this building which can readily be fitted up as laboratory for the current season. An additional room will be provided for lectures and recitations. These facilities, it is expected, will care for the first year's work, especially since the room mentioned is of unusually large size and has admirable light.

With the construction of the new engineering building provided for by the state legislature, work on which will begin soon, additional room will be made available for the new department. It is expected that by this means further laboratory space and lecture facilities will be afforded so that as the new course enters its second year with increasing numbers the facilities provided for it will be ample.

Entrance requirements for the new course will doubtless be the same as those now prevailing in the other 4-year courses. High school certificates will admit students under ordinary conditions, or in lieu of a certificate the student can enter by passing satisfactory examinations in subjects covered by ordinary high school courses.

The outline of the new course provides both broad general training and special technical studies immediately connected with domestic science and home economics.

It is expected that students in the new course will be required to take general subjects along the following lines:

English and English Composition; one modern language; either French or German; a course in hygiene and hygiene; work in General Economics; complete work in Chemistry, which is considered the foundation of much of the advanced work that will be given in domestic science proper; Zoology or Botany, which are fundamental studies; and probably a course in Bacteriology.

After completing a part of these general studies the student will begin special training in domestic science and domestic art. These special subjects it is planned will include the following:

Foods, their composition and nutritive value and the fundamental principles of cooking; house construction and sanitation; household management; the commercial manufacture of foods and the laws and principles regulating the sale of manufactured foods, including laws concerning adulteration; household finance, together with systems of household bookkeeping; the main facts of banking and related subjects; the planning and preparation of meals; an advanced course in the chemistry of nutrition following the general course in chemistry and leading to special work in the principles governing the preparation of foods for invalids and for children. In subjects that are properly classified with domestic art it is planned to give work as follows: the principles of house furnishings and decorations; the fundamentals of textiles including design, dye and weave of fabrics and their adaptability to various uses; the design and drafting of garments and the methods of manufacturing the same, both in factory and by hand.

The addition of the new course to the curriculum of the state college is largely to the credit of Dr. E. T. Fairchild, the new president of the institution, who is an earnest advocate of the belief that training offered by the state to its young people should take as much account of the needs of its young women as it does of the demands of its young men. In the words of the president, "the state is not doing its duty to the young people within its care until it provides training for its young women as adequate to their needs as the training offered for many years to the young men."

The popularity of the new course among the young women of the state and of surrounding states is beyond question. There has been repeated and widespread demand for the addition of this department to the curriculum of the state college for a number of years. It is felt that New Hampshire has made a strong move in taking the lead among the upper New England states in providing the new department.

lows: Maj. Charles W. Howard, adjutant general; first battalion and band, First Infantry, and Battery A, field artillery.

Capt. Reginald C. Stevenson, quartermaster department, second battalion, First Infantry.

Maj. Eugene W. Leach, judge advocate, third battalion and machine gun company, First Infantry.

Capt. Reginald C. Stevenson, quartermaster's corps, Troup A, cavalry.

Officers and non commissioned officers of the staff departments other than those to the foregoing organizations will report at 12 o'clock noon, June 9, 1913 to the chief of the staff at Center Barnstead, where general headquarters and depot of supplies will be established.

This year will be the third consecutive annual tour of duty where the practice marches and field maneuvers have been made by the state forces, and the general satisfaction among superior officers from the results attained has been widely spoken of.

The first point of rendezvous, it will be remembered was Keene and in the course of the hike Peterborough was visited, which was the home of the governor then in office. Last year the concentration was Weare center, and the benefits derived were of great magnitude, the mistakes of the preceding year being rectified, and the experience gained being used to much advantage.

The proposed country through which the troops will pass this year is one which will afford unlimited means of working out practical problems, and will present in many ways the real obstacles which would arise in actual warfare.

The skirmish fire with ball cartridges will be of inestimable value in the way of instruction, and will without doubt prove to be the most important of the tour of duty. It will be the first time that any thing of the kind has been done, this practice having heretofore been confined to the skirmish run on the different ranges.

The use of shrapnel by the battery is not an innovation, as the organization has had the opportunity both in Concord and on the first hike.

The troops will leave their home stations fully equipped and armed for the field, and will be in every respect in the condition that they would be if they were leaving for the front.

The messing of the troops en route will be done by the issuance of supplies, which will be rationed out to such organizations.

The securing of wagons for this tour of duty, a matter which has been of much difficulty in the past has been eliminated, as the state has been provided with the regulation army transportation wagons and these will be issued from Concord just prior to the start from the railway terminus to which the separate organizations are to be sent.
